Project 2: Internet Search Activity

Purpose: Find and study authentic examples of the vocabulary used in comparing and contrasting.

Final product: Three authentic examples within their original contexts of each of the words and phrases on p. 2-20 of the textbook.

Steps:
1. Form new groups of three
2. Receive assigned terms.
3. Create a new MS Word document. Type your names at the top.
5. Enter the term in quotation marks in the search box
6. Open one of the articles listed in the search results.
7. Search for your term within the article: Ctrl + F, enter your term, no quotation marks.
8. Copy the sentence in which your term appears and the sentences before and after.
9. Paste the sentences on your MS Word document.

See example MS Word document for correct format.

Final step: We'll need one volunteer to compile (put together) the groups' work into one document.
Example of small group product

Vocabulary in Context:
Words for Comparing and Contrasting

1. both
   a. Republicans into the general election, where the parties deliver their competing arguments to a wider audience. The findings suggest that there are opportunities and vulnerabilities for both parties as they proceed into the final seven weeks of the campaign.

   http://www.nytimes.com/2010/09/16/us/politics/16poll.html?_r=1&scp=1&sq=both&st=cse

   b. That battle was officially declared a tie. Still, scientists in both groups say that cocoa farmers, candy companies and chocolate lovers will benefit from having two sequences, of different varieties of cacao, that can be compared.

2. alike